

Office of the Superintendent of Securities

Press Release

Louis Arki, Superintendent of Securities for Nunavut announced numerous initiatives his office will undertake during International Fraud Prevention Month.

“March is Fraud Prevention Month”, said Mr. Arki. “As a result, my office is engaging in a number of activities intended to help investors recognize, avoid, and report fraudulent investments”.

They include a poster (fraud awareness) campaign, information brochure, additions to the Legal Registries (Securities) website and a seminar to raise public awareness on investment fraud.

Nunavut is an active member and participant in the Canadian Securities Administrators and the North American Securities Administrators Association. “Our activities represent part of a collaboration amongst all provinces, states and territories across North America”, Mr. Arki stated. “In today’s computerized, high technology, communication world, investment fraud knows no boundaries”, he said. “Internet and electronic mail are the most used means of communication and education”.
